RESERVED – CHRISTOPHER BURKETT – Essay #1 — HISTORIC TOPIC #1: Plato, Aristotle, & Ancient Greek Thought on Human Nature & Good Government

- The essayist will comment on how they succeeded & how they failed

RESERVED – SAMUEL POSTELL – Essay #2 — FEDERALIST & ANTI-FEDERALIST'S WISDOM: Successful Counteracting Wisdom of Federalist/Anti-Federalist to the Failures of Plato, Aristotle, & Ancient Greek Thought

- The essayist will comment on their thinking/debates about how to prevent the previous regime's weaknesses/failures
- This is not a counteracting debate between Federalists & Anti-Federalist but a commentary on their corresponding prescience
- The Ancients framed their constitutions on an understanding of human nature but tended to describe ideal regimes in terms of very high expectations of human nature. Not only were those expectations impossible to attain, but would require a high degree of despotism/governmental control (by American standards). The American Founders wanted a regime founded on freedom but also civic virtue, & so they called for a Constitution framed upon more realistic notions of human nature – good & bad
  - Examples:
    - Federalist No. 55: “Had every Athenian citizen been a Socrates; every Athenian assembly would still have been a mob.” “As there is a degree of depravity in mankind which requires a certain degree of circumspection & distrust, so there are other qualities in human nature which justify a certain portion of esteem & confidence. Republican government presupposes the existence of these qualities to a higher degree than any other form. Were the pictures which have been drawn by the political jealousy of some among us faithful likenesses of the human character, the inference would be, that there is not sufficient virtue among men for self-government; & that nothing less than the chains of despotism can restrain them from destroying & devouring one another.”

- George Washington to James Warren, October 7, 1785. We had too high an opinion of human nature
  - George Washington to John Jay, August 1, 1786 (FC, Chapter 5, Document 11). We have Errors to correct
  - Federal Farmer I on the virtue of officers & citizens
- Fed. 10, 37, 43, 51
